A Message from the Principal

I have loved my first year at Saint Ignatius' College Riverview. It has been a genuine blessing to join this College's mission and for that I am grateful. The greatest pleasure I gain from my role is being involved in the formation and education of our students in the context of our Catholic faith, Jesuit traditions and Ignatian charism.

The history of Catholic education in Australia is over 200 years old. For many decades of the 19th Century, the Christian churches (including our own) were the primary providers of education to Australian children. Catholic schools like Riverview offered a low-fee education to all comers and often no-fee education to the most needy. Our school is an inheritor of this Catholic tradition.

From their beginnings in Europe, Jesuit schools have always relied upon benefactors to support their mission. Riverview's very existence was enabled by the generous benefaction of Fr John Therry. In our early years, it was the Jesuits who assisted poorer students to be educated on the banks of the Lane Cove River. In recent decades, we have relied upon our lay companions to support the Foundation's Bursary and Building Funds.

The Bursary Program provides means-tested bursaries for boys who would otherwise not be able to afford a Jesuit education. We do not provide talent-based scholarships. The Program makes manifest the 'preferential option for the poor' and remains the most important work of the College's Foundation. Each year, boys at Riverview benefit from the generosity of our community.

The Building Fund enables the College to invest in our physical infrastructure. Donations take pressure off school fees and allow continued investment in our facilities. As we approach our sesquicentenary in 2030, the College is reviewing its Master Plan to determine capital priorities. The First Field Precinct (including the Fr Mac Pavilion), the Boarding Houses and the Regis Campus are likely priorities in the coming years.

Thank you for your generous support of this wonderful school. We are most grateful.

A Message from the Rector

One of the joys of being a Jesuit priest is that you are invited to accompany families in times of great joy, as well as sorrow. This primarily takes place within the sacramental context of baptisms, weddings and funerals. The vast majority of baptisms, weddings and funerals I celebrate each year usually have a strong connection to the wider Riverview Community.

After such celebrations, I spend some time reflecting upon the strength of relationships that often began from a person's experience at the College, either as a student or as a parent. The gifts of these relationships are nurtured during their time at the College and continue to grow in the years and decades that follow. The gift of community and the gift of friendships, flowing from this experience, leads to a deep affection, not just for each other, but for the College and our wider community.

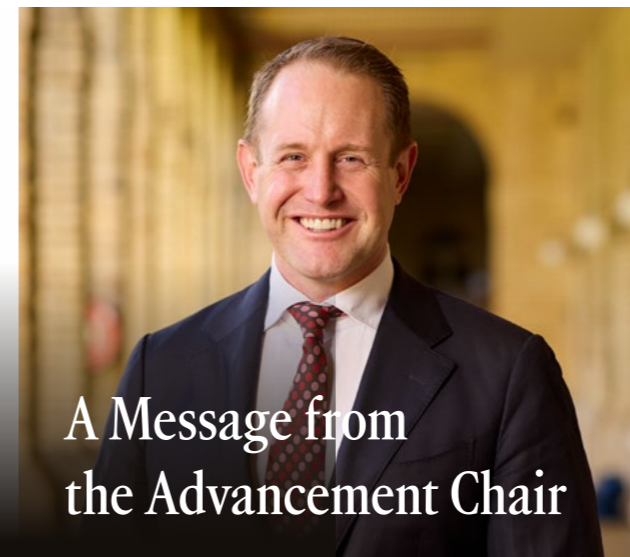

The mission of Jesuit education has been a gift to the Church and the wider world for nearly 480 years. My own life was deeply enriched as a boarding student at the College from 1985-1990. It had such a profound impact upon me that it led me to dedicate my life to God and the Church through joining the Society of Jesus in 1999. Over the last 5 years, it has been a source of joy and blessing for me to return to the Riverview Community and to make my own unique contribution, in giving back to the College and its current students, families and staff.

I am grateful that other members of the Riverview Community show their affection and gratitude by supporting the mission of Jesuit education through supporting our Bursary Program, the recently completed Wingaru building, as well as the Voluntary Building Fund.

Thank you for your commitment to our life-giving vision of education; your generosity enables current and future generations to become part of the wide network of relationships that give strength to the much loved Riverview Community.

Best wishes,

— FR THOMAS RENSHAW SJ (OR1990)
RECTOR

A Message from the Advancement Chair

Giving is, and always has been, a cornerstone of our beloved Saint Ignatius' College Riverview community. As a student, I recall a conversation one day in the main quadrangle with Fr John Ramsay SJ, after whose family Ramsay Hall is named. He described our community as a "beautiful quilt"; an image that he felt captured not only the warmth that covers us, woven from layers of generosity, kindness and compassion, but also the comfort we strive to extend, especially to those at the margins. He saw Riverview as a patchwork of God's people.

Many of us, when we think about giving, may recall the well-known Prayer of Saint Francis and the line, "For it is in giving that we receive". Yet it is also worth reflecting that through giving, we help sustain the College community itself. Steeped in the Jesuit tradition, our question is not whether we are called to give, but how deeply — each of us responding according to our abilities and our personal calling, in support of others.

One vital way this generosity is expressed is through financial support. Returning to Fr Ramsay's image, every contribution becomes an essential stitch in the quilt. Individually modest or substantial, together these stitches strengthen the fabric of our community, with students at the heart of all we do.

Each gift to the Riverview College Foundation advances our shared mission: to ensure that Riverview, building on its proud 146-year history of moulding minds and enlarging hearts, continues to offer a rich and transformative Jesuit education for today's students and for generations to come.

Maintaining modern and vibrant facilities is critical to this mission. The opening of Wingaru stands as a tangible expression of the generosity of our community, supporting learning, growth and formation.

At the heart of Ignatian life is responding to those in need. Thanks to the ongoing big-heartedness of our community, especially Old Boys', our Bursary Program continues to swing open the door of a Riverview education for boys who desire it but face financial barrier, putting them on a new transformative life path.

Long may our beautiful Riverview Community quilt grow stronger.

A Message from the Head of Philanthropy

Throughout the past year, I have had the privilege of witnessing firsthand the profound impact of generosity within the College community. Time and again, I have seen how philanthropy opens doors that would otherwise remain closed, and how a Jesuit education shapes young men not only in knowledge, but in confidence, character, and purpose.

Over the last 12 months, I have met families whose lives have been reshaped by the Bursary Program. One Sudanese mother, displaced by conflict, has found safety, friendship, and aspiration at Riverview. Her story invites us to imagine what becomes possible when opportunity is extended. Imagine the day when a refugee Bursary recipient returns home as a doctor, teacher, or peacebuilder, helping rebuild what was broken.

Across all bursary journeys, First Nations, refugee, or rural and regional, the same truth appears: when opportunity meets potential, generational change takes root.

We are pleased to share the 2025 Impact Report with you. Within these pages are stories of the difference you are making, through bursaries, and through the now-completed Wingaru science and technology building.

Wingaru is already transforming learning, offering spaces that spark curiosity, collaboration, and ambition. Its completion stands as a testament to the vision of our College and the generosity of donors who believe deeply in giving young people the very best environment in which to grow.

Looking ahead, our task is twofold: to continue expanding the Bursary Program so more young men with aspirations and promise can access a Riverview education, and to invest boldly in future capital and educational resourcing, ensuring our facilities and programs equip students to learn, lead, and serve with purpose.

This past year has affirmed what makes Riverview so distinctive: a community united by shared values, committed to forming young men for and with others. When generosity meets mission, lives are changed. And when this community comes together, extraordinary things become possible, not only for Riverview, but for the world our students will shape.

Introducing the Advancement Committee

The Advancement Committee is a standing committee of the College Board, chaired by Board Director Daniel Street. The Committee works closely with the Advancement team to strengthen community engagement, foster collaboration, and encourage philanthropic investment in the life and mission of the College.

Guided by Jesuit tradition and Ignatian spirituality, the Committee supports strategic planning and stewardship initiatives, ensuring thoughtful donor engagement and alignment with the College's long-term advancement priorities.

About the Foundation

Jesuit benefaction is steeped in a 475-year history, with the establishment of the first Jesuit school in Messina in 1548.

At Saint Ignatius' College Riverview, our mission is to provide a holistic Catholic education for students, inspiring them to a lifelong development of their faith and the encouragement to make a lasting difference in the world through their commitment and service to others.

Like many independent schools and tertiary institutions across Australia, the College relies on philanthropic giving to help accomplish its mission in ways not possible from school fees alone. Unlike many other schools, our current families are invited to make voluntary contributions to the Building Fund, and we are grateful for their generosity.

The Foundation raises money to fund means-tested bursaries that extend the opportunity of a Jesuit education to students whose families would not otherwise be able to afford it. The Foundation also raises capital for improvements to our campus and facilities. Our physical infrastructure supports our mission to deliver an exceptional education to our students, inspiring them to make a meaningful contribution while at the College and beyond.

The Riverview College Foundation is a registered charity with the Australian Charities and Not-for-Profit Commission. Donations to the Foundation are tax-deductible.

IGNIS signifies our philanthropic culture. We foster connections between the College's vision, our donors' passions, the dedication of our Old Ignatians' Union, the aspirations of our students, and the strength of our community.

Donations in support of the College are acknowledged as an act of service, conscience, and compassion, in keeping with Ignis, our spirit of giving.

The Riverview College Foundation focuses on four key philanthropic areas, generously supported by our community.

In Appreciation of our Parents and Friends' Association (P&F)

The meaningful support of the P&F has a lasting impact and is a testament to the continued generosity that sustains the College's long-standing history of philanthropy.

We deeply appreciate the continued philanthropic support of the Parents and Friends' Association (P&F). Their ongoing generosity has allowed us to offer a Jesuit education to students who might otherwise be unable to afford it, through our Bursary Program. These students are an important part of our community and we cherish the unique perspectives and experiences they bring to the College.

Gifts from the P&F have also played a crucial role in the development of Wingaru, our new science and technology facility, helping us advance our mission of excellence in teaching and pastoral care.

Throughout the year, various P&F initiatives and events support the College's fundraising efforts, continuing our proud tradition of community involvement. This generosity creates a lasting impact that benefits both current and future generations.

On behalf of our students, staff, and the Riverview College Foundation, we extend our heartfelt thanks.

Philanthropic support from the Class of 2025

The College is deeply grateful for the generosity of the Class of 2025, whose support of the Bursary Program has a lasting impact. Their philanthropic contributions help advance the College's mission to provide a Jesuit education to students from diverse backgrounds through means-tested bursaries.

Donor Testimonials

Ben and Melanie Johnson

— PAST PARENTS, COMPANIONS

When our twin boys were struggling at their previous school, we began looking for a place that would genuinely support their learning and wellbeing. We had always heard great things about Riverview's learning support program, so we applied, and both boys joined as boarders in Year 9. A few years later, our youngest followed, starting at Regis in Year 5.

The difference was immediate. The boys were in mainstream classes but received the extra help they needed. The rhythm of boarding, with clear routines for study, sport, rest, and community life, gave them stability and confidence. By Year 11, both boys were thriving, even the one who had previously required the most support.

Riverview's Year-Group boarding model creates a strong sense of belonging. Two staff members who made a remarkable impact were Bill Dowers, Ricci Head of House, and Christian Iligan, Head of Volleyball. Both were outstanding in their support, encouragement, and care.

We've chosen to give back because Riverview has had such a positive impact on our whole family. The boys became happier, more grounded, and more confident, and that changed everything for us. We're particularly excited about the new Wingaru science and technology building. It's a much-needed investment in the future, and it's wonderful to see it taking shape.

Ten years on, Riverview still has that warmth, welcome, and community spirit that first drew us in. There really is something special about this school.

Anton Kapel (OR1990) and Carolyn Kapel

— OIU BURSARY AMBASSADOR, PAST PARENTS, COMPANIONS

I started at Riverview in the 1980s and graduated in 1990. My time there was very full: sport, academics, the culture of the place – all of it shaped me. I played a lot of Basketball and Aussie Rules and enjoyed being involved right across College life.

Looking back, what stayed with me most were the values the school instilled: doing things the right way for the right reasons, and leaving things better than you found them. Those ideas have carried through into my work life. They're part of how I lead teams, making sure that effort and integrity sit at the centre of whatever we do.

When it came time to choose a school for our son, Riverview was the obvious choice. My own experience had been so positive, and we'd seen through friends and family that the College had continued to evolve in good ways. One thing Riverview has become particularly strong at is recognising that every student is different, helping each boy to find what he's good at and to thrive in that space.

Our son has found his place through debating. He's had fantastic mentors – coaches and older students – who've helped him grow in confidence and ability. He's even talking about coming back next year to coach, which really captures that Ignatian idea of giving back. He also took part in an immersion in Nepal, which was quite transformative. It opened his eyes in ways that surprised even him and gave him a deep appreciation for service and perspective.

As a family, we've stayed closely connected to Riverview. We chose to support the new Wingaru building because we believe deeply in what the College stands for. We've been long-time supporters of the Bursary Program. We are grateful that the Bursary program ensures that Riverview reflects the full spectrum of society. Having boys from different backgrounds enriches the school for everyone; it's part of what gives Riverview its character and its heart.

Looking ahead, I hope the College continues to evolve for the better but always keeps its Jesuit focus and the values that make it distinctive. There might be another generation of Kapels still to come through, and we'd be proud of that.

Foundation Highlights and Events

2025 Donor Thanksgiving Mass and Reception

In March 2025, we gathered to celebrate the generosity of our donor community at the annual Donor Thanksgiving Mass and Reception. Thanks to the support of our donors, the College's Bursary Program continues to change lives. Philanthropic gifts from our community also made possible the completion of Wingaru, our new science and technology building.

A special mass of thanksgiving was celebrated by College Rector Fr Tom Renshaw SJ in Dalton Memorial Chapel, with beautiful music from the Ignatian Choir.

Afterwards, guests came together in the Dalton Quadrangle to hear powerful reflections from Jonah Johnson (OR2015), a former First Nations bursary student, as well as Abang Othow, the mother of a current bursary student. Their stories offered a moving reminder of how the Bursary Program can transform lives and strengthen communities.

Hosted by the Riverview College Foundation, this special evening of gratitude, community and inspiration also featured a wonderful performance by our Year 12 singers, which was warmly appreciated by all.

Jonah Johnson (OR2015)

Former Bursary Student

Jonah, a proud Wiradjuri man from Griffith, NSW, was a boarder at the College from Year 7 to Year 12. A member of Ricci House, Jonah threw himself into College life, enjoying basketball, touch football and rugby. In 2013, he was the first student from the College to be selected to participate in a Jesuit Exchange Program, attending Clongowes Wood College in Kildare, Ireland. In addition, he was awarded the Rachel Ward Prize for Indigenous Leadership at the 2015 Valette Assembly.

After graduating from the College, Jonah completed a Bachelor of Communications (Social and Political Science) at the University of Technology, Sydney, during which time he interned at the Commonwealth Bank of Australia (CBA). He went on to secure a graduate role at CBA, ultimately working as an Indigenous Careers Acquisition Partner. Jonah is now Acting Managing Editor of Digital at National Indigenous TV, based in Townsville, Queensland.

“First Nations students at the College are like pebbles in the water – creating ripples that extend out into their communities, with powerful flow-on effects. What is the impact of each of those ripples? Having a broader societal impact starts with the individual... At its heart, this program is about generational change... Riverview’s bursary program is led by that understanding, and provides layered support – for the individual, to the family, to the wider community. We all have a role to play here.”

Abang Othow

Current Bursary Parent

Abang and her son joined the community at Riverview in 2023 when he was offered a place at the College through the Bursary Program.

Abang arrived in Australia in 2017, having fled South Sudan aged 11 after an assassination attempt on her father during the civil war. She spent three years in a refugee camp in Kenya prior to obtaining a humanitarian visa to Australia. Initially, she lived in a St Vincent de Paul Society shelter for women. Now a teacher, researcher and author, Abang spoke powerfully at the Donor Thanksgiving Mass and Reception of her experiences since joining the community at Riverview.

“Here at Riverview I have found a community that I could only dream of in my own childhood. Having grown up in unimaginable circumstances, and then teaching in some of the toughest schools in Australia, I can say without hesitation that Riverview represents the best of what a community can be. Here, the Jesuit tradition of compassion, respect, empathy, justice, and integrity is alive and flourishing.

The remarkable generosity through the Bursary Program is not just changing lives today, it is shaping generations to come. Your support allows fine young men, like my son, to grow into the individuals they were meant to be: confident, capable, and ready to make a lasting impact on the world. Thank you for being a catalyst for their future by empowering them to embrace every opportunity.”

Companions of the Foundation

Individuals who cumulatively donate $100,000 or more are recognised by the Riverview College Foundation as Companions of the Foundation, in honour of their significant contributions. Founded in the spirit of Saint Ignatius of Loyola, his Companions, and their shared commitment to serving others, the Companions giving society is distinguished by its philanthropic spirit.

Companions are presented with an embroidered College ‘pocket’ as a sign of our gratitude, and their names feature on the Honour Board in the Companions’ Room above Ramsay Hall. This recognition acknowledges meaningful gifts towards our shared mission of forming young men dedicated to making a positive impact in our world.

Companions are regularly updated about College initiatives and receive invitations to select College events. This engagement allows our most generous benefactors to experience first-hand how our spirit of giving, Ignis, is positively transforming the lives of our students and our broader community.

In 2025, we were proud to recognise nine new Companions. We welcome and thank:

- Simon and Ceilidh Calleia
- Ben and Melanie Johnson
- Amie Lyone
- Belinda Lyone
- Dr. Cornelius O’Donovan

The remaining two Companions have chosen to remain anonymous.

Gold Cup Rowing Regatta and Companion Hospitality

On 15 February 2025, Companions of the Foundation were invited to join College Rector, Fr Tom Renshaw SJ, and College Principal, Mr Mark Tannock, at the 141st Riverview Gold Cup Rowing Regatta. Guests enjoyed the excitement of the races, a vibrant atmosphere and the opportunity to connect over light refreshments in Cova Cottage on the Lane Cove River.

Senior College Musical Newsies Reception for Companions

On 29 May 2025, we welcomed Companions of the Foundation to a special performance of the Senior College Musical, Newsies - The Broadway Musical.

This vibrant production featured exceptional singing, dancing, and acting, supported by striking lighting, set design, and costumes. The cast included 99 Riverview students, joined by peers from Loreto Kirribilli, Loreto Normanhurst, Marist Sisters' College Woolwich, Monte Sant' Angelo Mercy College, Mosman High School, and Pymble Ladies' College - highlighting the collaborative spirit of this remarkable production.

Riverview vs Joeys Rugby Union matches and Reception for Companions

Companions of the Foundation were welcomed to a pre-match gathering ahead of the much-anticipated Riverview vs Joeys rugby fixtures in June 2025. This year marked the welcome return of the 1sts, 2nds, and 3rds matches to First Field, restoring a proud tradition on home ground.

Guests enjoyed refreshments in the relaxed setting of Therry Courtyard, located near Wingaru, the College's new science and technology building.

How to Support the College

Philanthropic support from our community is aligned with Ignis, our College's spirit of giving. We are deeply grateful for these gifts, which enable us to further our mission of excellence in education and pastoral care, inspiring our students to grow into 'men for and with others.'

The Bursary Program

About the Bursary Program

The College's Bursary Program offers the opportunity of a Jesuit education to families who would otherwise be unable to afford it. Our bursary students come from diverse backgrounds, including First Nations communities, refugee families, rural areas and the suburbs of Sydney. Each student is a valued member of our community, enriching the College with their unique experiences and perspectives.

Through the Program, the College actively engages with local communities while making a strong commitment to each individual student accepted into the Bursary Program.

We are dedicated to fostering a diverse and inclusive environment in which all students can flourish and grow into 'men for and with others.' The Bursary Program is integral to this mission.

Bursaries are granted based on financial need, and the College does not offer scholarships based on academic, musical or sporting prowess.

About the First Nations Program

The College is actively committed to redressing the inequalities of access and educational outcomes, and through our First Nations Program, we support our First Nations students to unleash their full potential.

Aligned with the College's values of justice and equality of opportunity, our First Nations Program aims to inspire every student to thrive and make a positive impact both during their time at school and beyond. Since the College enrolled its first Indigenous students in the 1980s, the Program has grown to become one of Australia's largest school-based First Nations initiatives in a metropolitan setting.

Under the leadership of our First Nations Coordinator, students benefit from a specialised support team, including dedicated Learning Enrichment staff and holistic involvement from the community at all levels. To help nurture their future study and career goals, Indigenous students receive individual mentorship from members of our Old Boy and current parent communities, along with access to Cultural Support Tutors and Volunteer Academic Tutors.

We celebrate the rich cultural heritage and identity that the First Nations students and their families bring, recognising their significant role in enhancing our community's understanding of Indigenous cultures and the wider world around us. The First Nations Program is underpinned by the College's commitment to diversity and inclusion, helping us move towards a more united and just society.

Financial support for our First Nations students comes from their families, organisations such as Yalari and the Australian Indigenous Education Foundation (AIEF), and the College's Bursary Fund.

SHARE THE GIFT OF HOPE

BURSARY APPEAL 2025

Our Annual Bursary Appeal

The College's annual mid-year Bursary Appeal is the cornerstone fundraising activity in support of the Bursary Program, reinforcing our tradition of offering a transformative Jesuit education through means-tested support. It provides our donor community, current families and Old Boys an opportunity to align with the College's enduring commitment to this mission.

In 2025, our Bursary Appeal theme "Share the Gift of Hope" was highlighted through a video featuring Jack Griffiths (OR2015). Jack, a boarder from Griffith, graduated from the College as part of the Bursary Program.

Click or scan the QR code to view the video.

In 2025, we celebrated the 145th year of bursaries at the College, acknowledging that the Bursary Program is made possible only through the generous support of our donors.

Jack Griffiths (OR2015)

Former Bursary Student

Jack joined the College from Griffith as a Year 11 boarder in 2014 through the Bursary Program. While he initially struggled with homesickness, he quickly found friendship and support among his fellow boarders. The care and guidance provided by the Southwell House team, led by Damien Reidy, left a lasting impact on Jack.

What Jack values most from his time at Riverview is the deep sense of community, and he maintains lasting connections. Inspired and encouraged by his teachers, Jack went on to complete a combined Civil Engineering and Commerce degree at UNSW. Today, he is making a difference as a Traffic and Transport Engineer with Strathfield Council. Jack credits the values instilled in him at Riverview with shaping his journey and giving him confidence to pursue new opportunities.

"When I came to Riverview, I was just a boy from the country. Reflecting on all the people who invested in me and gave me the opportunity to come to the College through a Bursary, I am filled with gratitude for the experience I had."

How the Bursary Program is Funded

The Bursary Program is entirely funded by the generous contributions of our donors. Gifts are tax-deductible and used exclusively to support bursary students.

Throughout the year, the Riverview College Foundation organises various fundraising activities to support the Bursary Program, principal of which is the annual mid-year appeal.

Your contributions help our students acquire the skills they need to thrive both at the College and in their future endeavours. By giving to the Bursary Program, you support our mission to develop young men with a strong sense of justice and commitment to serving others.

Damian (Ticka) Tynan (OR1984)

Chair - OIU Bursary Committee, OIU Bursary Ambassador & Past Parent

The OIU's support of Riverview's Bursary Program began in the 1990s with a simple but generous idea. When Michael Punch (former Sportsmaster, long-time 1st XI and athletics coach, and the College's first Head of Foundation) visited Jesuit schools in the United States. He was struck by their strong peer-year bursary culture. Upon his return, he gathered a small group of Riverview Old Boys to explore whether something similar could work here. None of us knew what it might become. We were simply following a generous idea, rooted in a Jesuit impulse to give back. From that beginning, something lasting began to grow.

Over the decades, the program has evolved into a genuinely community-driven effort. Today, more than 100 OIU 'Bursary Ambassadors' represent over 60 graduating cohorts. In the early years we relied on handwritten letters; meeting at the College, sharing a meal, signing envelopes late into the night. Slow, yes, but deeply connecting. As the program matured, we modernised the process while preserving what makes it special: year groups uniting to widen the circle of opportunity.

Since stepping into the role of Chair in 2015, I've watched the program mature. In 2025, we saw renewed momentum, with eight new OIU Bursary Ambassadors, including some younger Old Boys, demonstrating that the desire to give back is alive across generations. A highlight was the Class of 2001, which welcomed 11 new donors in 2025, the highest increase of any cohort. Their surge shows what's possible when Ambassadors re-energise their peers. More broadly, the number of new Old Boy donors in 2025 surpassed previous years, a clear sign that awareness and goodwill are rising.

Looking ahead, the vision is simple and strong: deeper engagement, broader awareness, and a shared belief that every contribution matters. Not everyone can give large amounts, but most can give something. When a community rallies behind a purpose, even small gifts become transformative.

At its heart, the OIU Bursary Ambassador program remains what it has always been: Old Boys helping the next generation access the same life-shaping Riverview experience that helped shape us. I truly believe this is all about generosity (large or small) opening doors, one year group at a time.

Helping Dismantle Barriers that Exclude

and Daniel Street

— OIU BURSARY AMBASSADORS - CLASS OF 1998

More than twenty-five years have passed since we walked out of the gates of Saint Ignatius' College Riverview as fresh graduates of the Class of 1998. Time has flown, but the Ignatian ethos, Christian values, and Catholic social teaching principles that shaped us as students, together with the friendships we forged, have remained constant. Another constant has been our unwavering commitment to our College's Bursary Program.

As beneficiaries of a Jesuit education, we were gifted the Ignatian lens through which to see and engage with our world: a lens of hope and possibility, responding with kindness and compassion, grounded in the cherished ideals of inclusion and justice. We count it a tremendous honour and extraordinary privilege to be OIU Bursary Ambassadors for our Class of '98. Being advocates and financial supporters of the Bursary Program is, for us, a practical expression of us living with that Ignatian lens, of both imagining and building a fairer and more just world. We see our contribution, modest but meaningful, as helping dismantle barriers that exclude, and expanding compassion to help create a College community of kinship, where everyone belongs.

Reaching our peers, and being reachable, is central to being a Bursary Ambassador. When we started as students, we had not heard of the internet. Even at graduation the 'world wide web' was in its infancy. In our early years out of school, we contacted our classmates by posting each one a signed letter asking for support. Needless to say, we were glad when email arrived! Today we use every available avenue, especially across the digital landscape, spanning our Class of '98 Facebook page to our Class 'WhatsApp Group' Noticeboard; we share news relating to how the Program is unlocking opportunity and fostering equity. In turn, we invite greater participation from our classmates so we can take our impact to a new level.

With gratitude being such a strong Ignatian theme, we are always conscious of thanking our peers for their involvement. We do not know the financial contribution any individual makes, but we are informed of who has joined us in giving and our shared quest to make a Jesuit educational experience at Riverview even more accessible to those from diverse socio-economic backgrounds. Whether it's thanking someone by phone, in person at a Class Reunion - where we also promote the Program - or at the annual Donor Thanksgiving Mass and Reception, we are always united in the belief that the reward of being involved is, in the end, a matter of conscience. Every contributor from the Class of '98 values the chance to convert into action those values, principles and ideals that were imbued in us as students, with our giving to the Bursary Program a potent vehicle for us to give back to the place that shaped us, taught us so much, and set us on our way.

A great delight for us each year is receiving the yearly story of a former bursary recipient as part of the Appeal. It is very moving to hear their story of personal transformation, and we are always glad to share it with our peers. These stories reinforce our view that supporting students on a Bursary is a covenant between equals, as well as being a powerful reminder of the Program's enduring impact and a compelling call to action — in the spirit of the 'magis'. Such personal testimonies from recipients move us deeply because, in truth, they echo the same personal transformation that each of us had, along with countless other Riverview graduates, from our own Jesuit educational experience at Riverview, which gifted us the Ignatian lens.

Ultimately, we see being an OIU Bursary Ambassador as love with sleeves rolled up: standing in solidarity for and with the poor, the vulnerable, and the marginalised, and helping to erase artificial divisions between "us" and "them," leaving only "us." Through the Ignatian lens, what comes into sharp focus is an exquisite mutuality, and the kind of College community of kinship and belonging that Saint Ignatius himself would recognise.

Support from the Old Ignatians' Union Bursary Ambassadors

Central to the College's fundraising efforts for the Bursary Program are the Old Ignatians' Union (OIU) Bursary Ambassadors, led by Ticka Tynan, Chair - OIU Bursary Committee. These remarkable, dedicated Old Boys volunteer their time year-round to foster support for the Bursary Program, in particular during our annual mid-year Bursary Appeal. Through personalised outreach, each OIU Bursary Ambassador works to inspire generosity among their peers, and their efforts have a lasting impact.

Bursary

Michael Opoyan (OR2022)

Looking back on my time at Riverview, I often tell my parents how grateful I am for the education I received. It wasn't just about academics; it was faith, sport, community and service. That holistic formation shaped who I am today.

I started in Year 5 and was the first in my family to attend Riverview, something I felt and continue to feel proud of. From the beginning, I wanted to make the most of every opportunity. The Jesuit principle of cura personalis, care for the whole person, became real to me through teachers, mentors and friends.

I was fortunate to serve in various leadership roles, including Captain of Dalton House. My Heads of House, Mr Trent McAllan and Mr David Wales, gave me the book Heroic Leadership when I became House Captain, and I still reflect on its message of servant leadership.

After graduating, I felt a responsibility to give back. Even as a university student, I've chosen to donate to the Bursary Program so other boys can have the same opportunities I had. I also work with the Ignatian Centre, helping current students understand the privilege and responsibility of a Jesuit education.

Riverview taught me that education is both a gift and a call to serve. That stays with me.

"I give to the Bursary Program because I want other boys, regardless of their circumstances, to experience the same holistic education I was so fortunate to receive."

Sam Cuschieri (OR1997) and Rebecca Cuschieri

— CURRENT PARENTS

Riverview has had a profound impact on my family across generations. My father is an Old Boy, and I attended the College along with my three brothers. I began as a day boy before moving into boarding, and that shift made the school feel like a second home. Boarding forged friendships that have lasted my whole life. Riverview is also the place where I met my wife. Her father and three brothers are all Old Boys, too. Our two boys now have a father, two grandfathers, six uncles, and cousins who are Riverview men, and all our children were baptised in the College Chapel. Riverview really is family to us.

What has always stood out to me is that no boy is left unattended. Whether you're gifted in sport, academics, music, or still finding your way, there is a place for you, and people who genuinely care. That's what my parents wanted for us: to get as much as we could out of the school, but to give back just as much. That spirit of humility and service defines Riverview.

The school spirit is real, and it's infectious. The boys show up for one another, whether it's the 1st XV, debating, rowing, or cross-country, they support each other with pride. As a parent, seeing my boys choose to spend weekends cheering on their school says a lot about the culture.

We choose to donate to the Bursary Program because we know firsthand how life-changing the opportunity can be. A close friend of mine came to Riverview on a bursary, and only later did we understand how much that chance opened doors for him. Giving another boy that same opportunity feels like the most meaningful way we can give back.

Looking ahead, I'm confident the College is in good hands. As long as Riverview keeps forming fine young men - grounded, generous, and connected - it will remain the place we love.

The Future in Focus

Later this year, the College will present our new five-year strategic plan - a roadmap that positions the College to embrace emerging opportunities and navigate challenges, while preparing us to celebrate our sesquicentenary in 2030. Through careful planning, collaborative effort, and steadfast commitment to our Jesuit mission, Riverview will continue to provide an education that equips young men to lead with purpose, integrity, and a genuine desire to serve God through service to others.

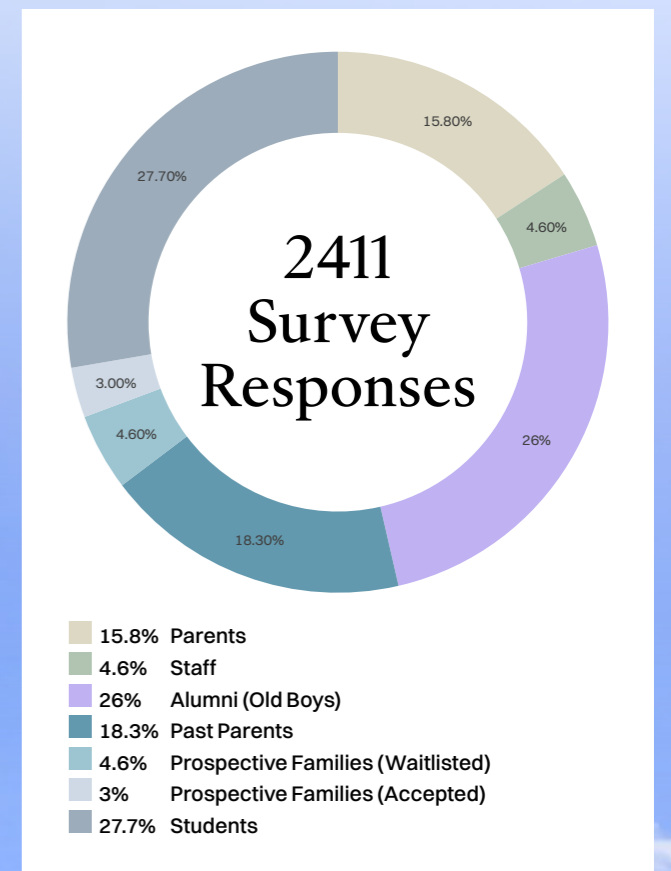

Community Consultation

During December 2025 and January 2026, a broad cross-section of our community was invited to share their insights, hopes and aspirations for the College, spanning faith, formation, teaching and learning, co-curricular, campus, and community. This was carried out through a comprehensive online survey. Summary below:

Parents	381
Staff	110
Alumni (Old Boys)	627
Past Parents	442
Prospective Families (Waitlisted)	110
Prospective Families (Accepted)	73
Students	668
TOTAL	2,411

This period of discernment reflects optimism in our shared commitment to shaping Riverview's future with care and perspective, building on community insights.

WINGARU

TO THINK

Wingaru: our new science and technology building

In 2025, we opened the doors to our new science and technology building, Wingaru. Already, this remarkable facility is enriching the life of our College. It's a place where students learn, collaborate, and grow within an environment shaped by our Jesuit commitment to excellence in teaching, learning, and pastoral care.

Wingaru was conceived as more than a modern educational space; it is a home for curiosity and formation. Its purpose-built facilities, including the state-of-the-art superlab, open new possibilities for hands-on discovery and interdisciplinary learning. Flexible learning zones and contemporary House Areas offer welcoming spaces that support both learning and pastoral care.

Grounded in respect for Country, Wingaru honours First Nations culture and the land of the Cammeragal clan of the Gai-mariagal Nation. The Yarning Circle centred on a Port Jackson Fig, along with student-created artwork on the louvres and within the building, invite all who enter to pause, reflect, and acknowledge the enduring custodianship and culture that shape our community.

While thoughtfully designed for long-term adaptability, Wingaru is first and foremost a place where students and staff flourish today and into the future.

We remain deeply grateful to all who brought this vision to life. The staff who planned and delivered the project, together with former colleagues who laid its early foundations, have gifted our community an enduring legacy. Most importantly, we thank the donors and families whose generosity made Wingaru possible. Your belief in our mission, and in forming young people of purpose, service, and human excellence, continues to inspire us.

Within Wingaru, the Jesuit contribution to Science over last five centuries has been recognised. There is an image of a prominent Jesuit scientist incorporated into each science laboratory, including Fr Christopher Clavius SJ, Fr Roger Boscovich SJ and Fr Pierre Teilhard de Chardin SJ.

Official Opening and Blessing of Wingaru

On 21 November 2025, the College opened and blessed Wingaru. The Very Reverend Fr Quyen Vu SJ, Provincial of the Australian Province of the Society of Jesus, blessed the building, which was opened by Senator the Hon. Malarndirri McCarthy, Minister for Indigenous Australians and former parent and member of staff at our Jesuit school. Senator McCarthy was unable to attend in person because of Cyclone Fina, and opened the building virtually through a recorded video. Our valued guests enjoyed a performance by the Ignatian Choir as well as a corroboree in Wingaru's yarning circle, performed by our First Nations students, led by our First Nations Coordinator along with local elders.

Anthony Chandler

— HEAD OF FACULTY - MATHEMATICS

Moving into Wingaru has transformed the Mathematics Faculty, positively impacting students and teaching staff alike.

From day one, what has struck me the most is the quality of the teaching spaces. The rooms are big, bright and calm, full of natural light, with high ceilings and clean lines. We can comfortably fit a full class (and then some) without feeling as though the boys are being squeezed into a box. The corridors and stairwells are wide, so even when large groups are moving between lessons, things flow smoothly. It feels like a building that has been genuinely designed first and foremost for teaching and learning in the STEM fields.

The classrooms work really well for the teaching of Maths. The technology is reliable - projectors, laptops, graphing software, OneNote; all the tools we use every period are up and running without fuss. At the same time, the rooms still lend themselves to old-fashioned pen-and-paper work when that's what the lesson calls for. The semi-circular "Protractor Room," as it's fondly referred to by the Maths Faculty, is a beautiful example of how space can reflect what we teach. The teachers and students allocated this room are very fortunate.

One of the unexpected positives has been what I call the "fishbowl effect." With so much glass, everyone is always, in a sense, on display. Staff can see into classrooms as they walk past; students know they're visible too. That openness is good for accountability, but it also lifts practice. It creates opportunities for colleagues to observe one another, share ideas and - particularly for younger staff - to discreetly learn from more experienced teachers.

There are also exciting possibilities we've only just begun to explore; adjoining rooms that open into double classrooms, smaller breakout spaces for exams or support, and the capacity to rethink things like accelerated learning and group work. In many ways, we've only scratched the surface of what Wingaru will allow us to do. But even at this early stage, it already feels like a major step forward for Mathematics at Riverview.

— YEAR 11, 2026 TERESA HOUSE (ONE OF 6 HOUSES IN WINGARU)

When I first set foot in Wingaru, I was really excited about what it could hold - we all were. I love registration each morning; it's such a great way to start the day. The Teresa House Area is spacious and open, and it's easy to chat with our Head of House, ask questions or talk about any problems.

The windows and natural light make a big difference. We now hold Mini House meetings in our new House Area, and last year it was really special to see the Year 12 students receive their new ties there.

Wingar feels modern and artistic - there's a great atmosphere. The light and space have definitely helped our learning. With new tables and chairs, there is room to concentrate. I take Maths, Engineering, and Chemistry classes in Wingaru, and the "superlab" is the first place we have been able to do proper experiments; there's a lot of space to work in and we're not standing on top of each other. It's safer too. I feel inspired by the new classrooms and I'm thinking about studying engineering after school.

The new Canteen is very inviting. The food is displayed in glass heating boxes, so when I'm lining up I might think "I'll try something new today." There are also designated queues, and a new outdoor area where we can sit and chat - I've seen so many more students connecting, including with staff.

Wingar really feels like the heart of learning at Riverview. I know how privileged I am to learn in a building like this. It's going to benefit so many boys, for generations. Opening this building is quite momentous, and I really feel part of Riverview's history. I can already imagine coming back one day and seeing the next group of students learning here too and thinking that I was one of the first ones to study and have a House in Wingaru.

— CURRENT PARENTS

Riverview has been an important part of our family's story for many years. As an Old Boy, I have strong memories of my time at the College, especially the friendships that have lasted well beyond graduation. Standout moments include travelling to school with mates, sharing jokes and laughter, and talking about who might win the footy on the weekend.

Those everyday interactions built lifelong bonds, both with my immediate peers and Old Boys from other year groups.

Sport was a big part of my time at Riverview. Athletics, AFL and basketball gave me opportunities to develop trust, resilience and teamwork, with peers as well as teachers. Those shared challenges and goals helped shape the person I became.

It's been wonderful to see our sons experience that same sense of community. From their early days in Year 5, they were encouraged to seize every opportunity, from sport and music to gardening club, drama, debating and improvisation. One of our sons joined the football tour to Spain and the UK, which was a fantastic bonding experience. We love that Riverview provides so many pathways for students across sport, languages, and the arts, so that everyone has the chance to find their place and thrive, not just those in the top teams or programs.

We feel so fortunate for the care and commitment of the staff. The pastoral support from our Head of House has been outstanding, and the teachers are deeply genuine in the way they connect with students.

We get so much out of Riverview, and giving back is our way of saying thank you. Whether it's volunteering in the Canteen, helping with exam provisions or offering financial support, these small acts of generosity mean a great deal to us. One reason we chose Riverview was for our boys to learn about contributing. I believe everybody can be generous in one way or another, and our family's support of the Bursary Program is part of that.

We also felt strongly about contributing to Wingaru because it is an investment in the next generation of students coming through Riverview. Excellent facilities also help attract and retain great teachers, and enable the school to perform well across academics, sport, the arts and philanthropy.

With the completion of Wingaru, Riverview looks and feels like the top-tier institution we have always known it to be. But what makes this place truly special goes far beyond the buildings: it's the people, the friendships, the care and the sense of shared purpose. That spirit is what we are most proud to be part of.

— THE LATE MICHAEL AND MARGARET O'ROURKE

John O'Rourke (OR1984) and Vanessa O'Rourke

— CURRENT PARENTS, PAST PARENTS, COMPANIONS

My father was determined that his sons would have a Jesuit education. He valued the Ignatian approach so deeply that, although he had attended a different school, he chose Riverview for us. I was the middle of three brothers, starting in 1979 and graduating in 1985.

They were great years. I was part of a fantastic year group and had a well-rounded experience: study, sport, service, and the kind of mateship that lasts for life. I still catch up weekly with friends from those days.

Now my own three boys have been through, or are still at Riverview - Ned (OR2020), Jimmy (OR2022) and Bill in Year 9, 2026. I didn't oversell the school to them, instead wanting them to have their own journey. Watching them enjoy this and form their own deep friendships has been very special.

Riverview has evolved in positive ways, broader, more expressive but still brings out the best in every boy, whether academic, artistic, or athletic. That inclusiveness is part of its DNA.

There were teachers who shaped me, like my economics teacher, Tony Sewell. My boys have had similar mentors - Heads of House, coaches, people like Dan Noonan - staff who see the boys as individuals and help them grow.

As a family, we've been proud to support the new science and technology building. Firstly, as a sign of gratitude for how Riverview helped shape who we are. Secondly but just as importantly, this project was a fitting way to honour my parents (and Ness's in-laws), Michael and Margaret O'Rourke, for the giving lives they led and the values they passed on.

Being "men / one for others" is something that they lived, not just said and what we and others celebrate and do ourselves.

That humility and sense of service is what makes Riverview special, and what we hope it continues to foster in generations to come.

Felix and Jane Danziger

— CURRENT PARENTS, PAST PARENTS

Our family has a long and happy connection to Riverview. Jane's brothers are Old Boys, our older son graduated two years ago, and our younger son moved to the Senior Campus in 2026 after two great years at Regis. The school has nurtured both our boys' different interests, successfully bringing out their unique strengths and supporting their development as individuals. We are deeply appreciative of the care and passion demonstrated by the teachers, as well as the welcoming, inclusive community that fosters strong, lifelong friendships.

What truly resonates with us is the school's philosophy of forming well-rounded, generous, hard-working and thoughtful young men. Riverview instills a profound understanding of being part of a broader community and the importance of giving back. We've seen this firsthand - from our younger son's experience at Cana Farm to our older son's inspiration to work in Colombia after graduating. We are committed to helping other boys have the same incredible experience that our sons have enjoyed.

We are particularly thrilled that our donation will support Wingaru, the new science and technology building. Education is a core value for us; we met while doing our postgraduate studies and believe deeply in the lifelong impact of a quality education. Additionally, we strongly believe in the future of STEM. With the incredible pace of change in our world, a solid foundation in science and technology combined with a flexible and generous mindset is essential - not only for future scientists but across all fields.

Wingarau will provide a great environment for every boy to build this essential foundation, while offering outstanding opportunities for those wishing to explore STEM in greater depth. It's inspiring to see Riverview actively embrace this approach and support the boys in gaining exposure to new ways of working. We are pleased to be able to help.

Donors broadening their support in 2025

In 2025, 54 donors contributed to both the Bursary Program and the College's Voluntary Building Fund. Of these 54, 17 contributed to both for the first time. We are deeply grateful to these families for broadening their support, helping us sustain a diverse and inclusive community where every student has the opportunity to grow into a 'man for and with others.'

The Bursary Program lies at the heart of our mission. Bursaries are awarded based on financial need and are funded entirely through the generosity of our donors.

We invite all members of our College community to consider joining them in supporting the Bursary Program.

Thank You to our 2025 Donors

The generosity of our donors has lasting impact, advancing our mission to offer a holistic Catholic education and inspire our students to continually develop their faith throughout their lives.

Thank you to those in our community who supported the Riverview College Foundation in 2025. Your philanthropy is acknowledged as an expression of our College values of competence, conscience, compassion and commitment, which are in keeping with Ignis - our College's spirit of giving.

Areas You May Wish to Support

The Bursary Program - furthering our mission

The Bursary Program offers the chance for a Jesuit education to families who might otherwise be unable to afford it, and depends entirely on the generosity of our community. It plays a vital role in the College's mission to build a diverse and inclusive community where all our students can flourish and grow into 'men for and with others.'

Our annual Bursary Appeal is held in June, and gifts can be made year-round.

Teaching and Learning Environments - building our vision

Cultivating an outstanding environment helps us fulfill our vision to meet the educational, spiritual, cultural, and recreational needs of our students. Investing now ensures that we can continue to deliver outstanding teaching and learning spaces for years to come. As the College evolves, we are committed to maintaining a lasting connection with our history, the local community, and the Lane Cove River.

Bequests - a gift in your Will - your legacy, their future

The College was established through the generosity of a number of benefactors, most notably Fr John Therry, who bequeathed the majority of his estate to the Society of Jesus. It was his forward-thinking vision that made the College we know today possible.

Bequests remain crucial, supporting the Bursary Program - which relies entirely on the generosity of our donors - as well as allowing us to enhance our campus environments, thereby remaining at the forefront of educational technology.

Leaving a gift in your Will is a significant decision. We invite you to have a confidential discussion with Ian Lawton, Head of Philanthropy, to explore the lasting impact such a contribution can have.

We can provide assistance with suggested wording, and would be pleased to arrange a visit to the College. If you have already included the College in your Will, please inform us so we can update our records.

Culture and Community projects

Please get in touch for a confidential discussion about a cultural or community opportunity you wish to support, and explore how it could be brought to life at the College.

Support for the Riverview College Foundation

Thank you for considering a gift to the Riverview College Foundation. Every gift is valued, and will benefit our current students and staff, as well as future generations.

Thank You

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to our donors, whose dedication to education and pastoral care at Saint Ignatius' College Riverview aligns with our mission to inspire students to become 'men for and with others'.

The support of our community is vital to advancing our mission to provide a Jesuit education now and in future generations.

Philanthropy at the College is recognised as an act of service, conscience, and compassion, in keeping with Ignis - our spirit of giving.
